WORK STARTS TODAY ON NEW LABOR CAMP

Surveying and Other Preliminary Work is Under Way Today

Work has been started today on the new Unemployed Camp on the outskirts of Nevada City. The camp is located on the Grass Valley highway between Nevada City and Town Talk. Surveying work and preliminary details are being done now and in a day or two actual construction work will begin. At that time from 12 to 14 men will be employed in the actual construction of the camp buildings.

William Sharp, fire chief of the Nevada County district, is in charge of work being done and will continue to supervise the work of the unemployed in their work on the highways and timber roads.

The buildings being put up now at the Unemployed Camp are to be wooden structures of mammoth proportoins. The two buildings, according to plans now in possession of Sharp, will be 18 feet wide by 96 feet long and will have 8 foot high walls. One of the buildings will be a dormatory and will accomodate 100 men during the night time. Bunks will be built two high and which is equal to doubling the floor space.

The other buildnig of the same proportions will be a cook house and dining room. It will be divided into the two sections and the necessary built-ins will be installed.

At the completion of the construction work on the camp, about 100 unemployed single men will be put to work from those headquarters. Although some of the men will come from Nevada County, it is expected that most of the men will hail from around Sacramento, where the percentage of unemployed men is very much greater than it is in this county.

The men will be put to work on the maintainence of the Tahoe-Uhiah highway and on the construction of several timber roads around Nevada County. This work will last until probably the first of April, next year. Work done by the same group last year, lasted until April and the same quitting time is expected for 1932 and 1933.

ARMISTICE DAY DRAWS CROWD TO THIS CITY

Starting their Armistice Day celebration with a parade through the streets of Nevada City last Friday morning shortly after 10:30, the Banner Mountain Post No. 2655 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars staged a real successfull day. It was the first celebration for Armistice Day held in Nevada City for several years.

At the head of the parade ,Max Weiss of this City led his brother Vets from upper Broad street down through town to the Plaza. Following the Vets came the High school band under Mr. Sweeny, High School instructor. The band is composed of both girls and boys. Their playing was enjoyed by the many residents and visitors that lined the streets.

After the band came the grammar school students They marched with teachers in the order of the grades. That is. the first grade first, then the second grade and so on through to the eighth grade. It was interesting to note how the children increased in size and height as the higher grades came on.

After gaining the plaza, the parade turned left and came up Commercial street to Pine street and then marched up to Broad and down to the front of the Odd Fellows hall.

The parade was a huge success in every way and showed some fine civic spirit. The participants joined with a will and their efforts were heartily approved of by the hundreds that lined the streets.

Perhaps the only dissenting was given out by two old women gossipers. They had no comment to make that was not of a critical nature. Catch a load o fthis: "There goes Mr. Blank, doesn't he look funny in that trick coat. He's Mrs. so and so's step son, He's way out of step. And there's that new lady-up-the-street's daughter. Just look at the paint. She looks like she's been up all night too. Look, here comes that what cha-ma- callem- girl. Imagine, using high heels for a parade. I hope they hurt her feet. " Etc, etc, until far down the street. The writer could not stand it any longer and being a gentleman left without comment. It was just just a case of jealousy; those two gossipers knew how funny they looked and they wanted to bring someone else down to their level.

In front of the Odd Fellows hall Judge Raglan Tuttle then gave an address. He commended theV. F. W. for it's splendid endeavor. Giving a brief outline of events from prior to the war up untill today, he told of our position in the world powers at the present time. An emphasis was given to the fact that to preserve our peace, we must maintain adequate standing war forces.

Reverend Buckley led the crowd in prayer and floral offerings were given the rembrance of departed veterans. Their roll call was given also, which was followed by taps.

The high school band rendered several selections and the congregated people joined in singing "America."

The Roseville post under Commander Helmers aided materially in the successful staging of events. District Commander Williams of the United States Navy was also in attendance, although suffering from a broken leg. He took charge of the open meeting in the afternoon where the two candidates were initiated. Gold buttons were presented to Wm. Zanocco and John Marks for the honor of getting five or more new members for the post.

The ladies auxiliary gave a lunch for the veterans. That was followed by an open meeting at which the public attended, from 1 till 2 o'clock. Following the meeting came the public card party until 4. A supper was given for the public at 6 o'clock and at 7:30 another card party was given until 10 o'clock. The card parties were well attended and were enjoyed by many.

The whole day was a huge success and more like it are looked forward to in years to come.

A telegram received this noon from Bill Rodda of Minneapolis, states that with his family he will visit Nevada City for a vacation period starting sometime during the latter part of this week. They will be accompanied by Bill's brother, John Rodda and his wife from Berkeley. Both men were former residents of Nevada County for many years, John being born in Nevada City and Bill in Grass Valley.

MUCH ACTIVITY IN QUAKER HILL DISTRICT

Hydraulic gold mining is being tentatively developed on a number of properties in the Quaker Hill district several miles east of Nevada City. Although a large portion of the gravel has been washed away in the old days, there are still many millions of virgin gold-bearing gravel waiting to be mined. There is more activity there now than there has been for many years. Some of the properties though not being worked at this time, have changed hands or been let out on option, and the whole district has good possibilities of having a very busy mining section next year.

It is understood that an option on the nearly 180 acres owned by Martin Delali on the north side of the Greenhorn River, has been sold last week to a group of Los Angeles people. There is no work being done on the piece at this time, but preliminary sampling and prospecting has been done and it is expected that development work will be started by next spring.

Near the Delali property but on the other side of the Greenhorn River, is the Scott's Flat Hydraulic mine. John W. Scott, mining engineer in charge has put a few men to work on that piece. Work is progressing slowly as Scott says they are just feeling their way along and will later decide whether to go ahead on a large scale or not. Work is being done at a minimum expense while the men are preparing to run through a certain number of yards of gravel. The worth of gold recovered from the specified amount of gravel will give the average gold valuse contained in the property.

By the time this test run of gravel has been made, Scott will have figured out the average production cost per cubic yard. With that knowledge at hand he will then decide whether to go ahead with hydraulic plans or not. An ample supply of water is available for piping and power purposes.

It is known that two brothers are preparing for sluicing work in the Scott's Flat section next spring. They have obtained ground and water rights. At present they are buying working equipment and will spend a part of the winter in preparing for the contemplated work. Prospecting work has been completed and the boys are well satisfied with their probable returns.

Above the Scott's Flat district and to the north-east, is a hydraulic mine being developed by Lincoln Brodt of Piedmont, California. For the past several months, Brodt, an experienced mining man, has been developing his property. It is understood that he is now engaged in building water flumes to the property.

Brodt left yesterday for his home in the bay region where he will spend several weeks before returning to active work on the mine.

Another mine in the Quaker Hill district that has great possibilities, is the Tom and Jerry hydraulic mine being held by William Fenton, Dr. R. F. Werner and the Bickel interests. Actual mining progress on the mine has been held up of late due to litigation difficulties. The mine is fully equipped and ready to go as soon as waster rights are established and legal differences straightened out.

LANTERN SHOP OPENED TO PUBLIC SATURDAY

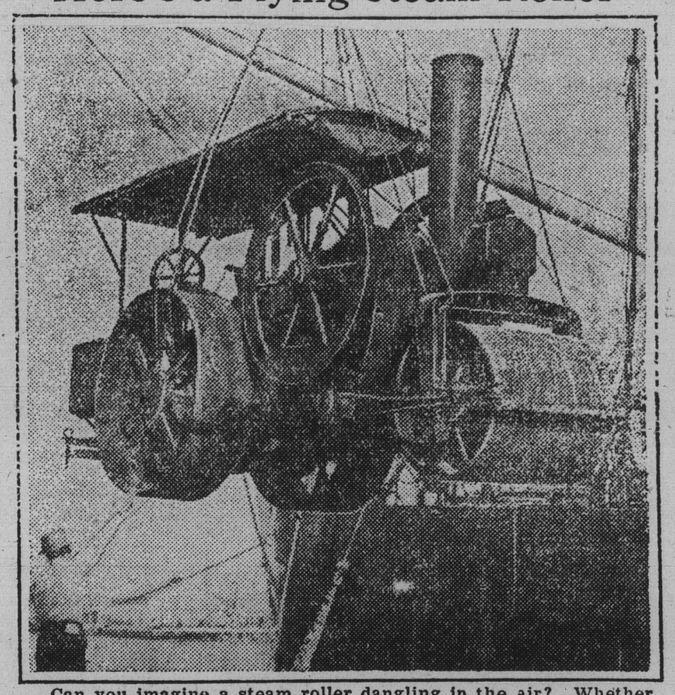
Are you looking for a gift and do not know just what to give? That doubt can be dispelled by a visit to the Lantern Shop, the new gift store and Circulating Library opend by Lloyd Penrose at 108 Pine Street, Saturday.

Lloyd has displayed much originality and taste in the selection and arrangement of the shop and this new addition to the business section of Nevada City has a very promising future. On the opening day many expressed their surprise at the many artistic things to be found there.

Mr. Penrose is well known here, as he has lived here all his life and is a graduate of the Nevada City high school and the Nugget joins with his many friends in wishing him much success in this new business venture.

Mt. Shasta—Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Geisendorfer, opened gift shop in northern section of town.

Here's a Flying Steam Roller



Can you imagine a steam roller dangling in the air? Whether you can or not, here's a picture of one swaying some feet above the ground—a sight that would make an imbiber sign the pledge. When this giant steam roller was hoisted into a Los Angeles steamer, it was claimed to be one of the heaviest lifts on record.

CONSIDERABLE DECREASE IN FIRES HERE THIS YEAR

Figures just released by William Sharp, State Fire Chief in charge of Nevada County, show that the number of firers and the damage done during 1932 was very much less than for the year of 1931. Correspondingly low was the fire cost to the state for this district.

During the 1932 season, fire rangers from the Nevada City office were sent out to a total of only 68 fires. Of this number 12 were false alarms and so the number of fires actually worked on was but 56 for the year. This compares very favorably with the 138 fires of last year.

The season this year was from May the 24th until October the 31st During that period the 56 actual fires burned a total of 116 acres of timber land and 1611 acres of brush and range land in Nevada County, making a total burned acreage of 1727 for the year. This seems an extremely low figure when stacked up against the over 21,000 acres that were burned in Nevada County last year.

A total of $271.00 damage was done by the fires this year. $35.00 of that was done to the timber land, while the balance, $236.00, was done to the brush and range land.

Costs for additional help during the past season, amounted to only $18.25 for labor and $21.70 for transportation. The cost for the regular fire crew was $2250.00. This latter figure covers the cost of food, salaries and incidentals for the average crew of 15 men kept in the Nevada City headquarters during the regular season. It does not include Fire Chief Sharp nor his Assistant Chief, Howe. Again a favorable comparison can be made with the 1931 figures. Last year the total cost went over $11,000.00.

From the above figures it appears that many of last year's fires were set by men for mercenary reasons. In 1931, the state paid men for their fire fighting work when they were pressed into service. This year that has been done away with and except in extreme cass, only the regular crew is used for fire fighting. Their work has been very satisfactory from a fire fighting standpoint as the figures prove. In all, the system now employed seems to be achieving the desired result—Smaller fires and less of them.

Besides the efficient work done in Nevada County, Sharp reports that his men aided in fire fighting work thre times in Yuba County and four times in Placer County, during 1932.

CRACKS IN BATTERY

Presence of moisture on top of the storage battery and container is evidence of a crack in the compound used to seal the jars, according to the Free Emergency Road Service of the California State Automobile Association. Unless such leaks are remedied quickly the gravity of the leaky cell will be lowered, as they permit loss of acid which is replaced by distilled water.

OPEN SEASON ON BAND TAILED PIGEONS SOON

CAMPTONVILLE, Nov. 12.—The Fish and Game Commission has made an announcement that there will be an open season on band-tailed pigeons from December 1 to 15 inclusive, in California this year. The bag limit is placed at 10 per day and any person at any one time may possess not to exceed 10, thus the daily limit and number of pigeons in possession at one time are the same.

While the state game laws do not provide an open season on band-tailed pigeons the federal game laws allow the season and bag limit as above defined. The state game wardens will enforce the season and limit as they all hold appointment as federal game wardens.

There are quite a large number of these pigeons inthis section, feeding at this time upon madrone berries. In the spring and summer months they infest local cherry orchards.

NEVADA CITY VICTOR OVER SAN JUAN HI

Hard Fought Game Goes to Local Team Last Friday Afternoon

Six times last Friday afternoon passes were thrown in the general direction of Bob Tamblyn and five times Tamblyn snared passes without a bobble. One of those passes was scooped just inches off of the ground as Tamblyn rolled over the goal line hugging the pigskin to his chest. That bit of play gave Nevada City a 7 to 6 lead over San Juan high school by converting Oates' touchdown. Another pass grabbed out of the blue sky by Nevada City's right end was responsible for the local team's second touchdown.

In all it was a wonderful victory for the Nevada City team over one of the strongest high school teams in the valley. San Juan High school of Fair Oaks is said to have been the only team to hold the strong undefeated Cortland high eleven to a tie game in the last three seasons. And then coming up here Armistice day after an early season 13 to 20 victory over the local team, San Juan high was presented with as neat a pasting to the tune of 13 to 6 as you would want to see.

Playing without the services of their star back, Ralph Pierce, the light but fast local team played their 17 pounds to the man heavier opponents practically off their feet. The game was clean and hard fought throughout and showed the townsfolk here that we have a mighty good football team for the first season's turnout.

Ralph Pierce suffered a smashed finger in moving rock at the high school last week and had to be content with watching proceedings from the sidelines. With him in there, Nevada City might well have run up another touchdown.

Starting the game by receiving and bringing the ball back to the 26 yard line, in three downs Nevada City made 6 yards. Pulling a fast one, instead of punting, Chapman passed to Tamblyn for a 24 yard gain. For the rest of the quarter Nevada City was continually on the offense in San Juan territory. Buzz Chapman, flashy halfback for the locals, made the mistake early in the game of running too far back with the ball on end runs. He was usually downed for a loss on those attempts ,one time for 17 yards.

Early in the second quarter, Nevada City on her own 16-yard line was forced to punt on fourth down. Between Chapman's getting the ball away too slowly and a San Juan end breaking through, the punt was blocked. The ball bounded over the goal line and a San Juan player fell on it for a touchdown. The place kick for extra point went wild. San Juan 6, Nevada City 0.

That was a discouraging break and many thought the locals were licked. But not so. Instead the boys came back twice as hard and pushed San Juan all over the field.

A reverse, a spin play, two line plunges, a pass and another reverse, Nevada City had the ball in San Juan territory. Starting an end run, passed far to the right side of the field to Chapman. Running in full stride, Nevada City's fast back stretched to the utmost and barely picked the ball out of the air with his finger tips. Running around two San Juan players, Chapman was finally out of bounds on the eleven yard line for a gain of 34 yards.

Aided by a five yard penalty, Oates plunged the ball over in three downs. Score, 6 up.

Lining up for the try for extra point, Elmer Oates ran back to pass. A San Juan player chasing him finally grabbed him by the left arm. As he was being swung around, Oates let the ball fly with his free arm in the direction of Tamblyn. That player scooped the ball up as before described and Nevada City was leading by a point, 6 to 7.

The balance of the half was fairly even, with Nevada City holding a slight edge due to successful passing.

THE BUY AT HOME CAMPAIGN

Now that the election is over we can get back to the more important business of boosting Nevada City. With the promise of better conditions nationally, we can look forward to better conditions locally. This district has been very fortunate during the depression period as gold mining has been actually stimulated by the depression.

Gold mining will continue to be about the best industry in the country. And Nevada City is right in the heart of the best gold mining district in the United States. The prospect of increasing activity in this district is good. There is a steadily growing development taking place. Nearly every week sees some new company beginning work in this district. More men are being employed in mine work and this helps other lines of business.

It is up to the business men of Nevada City to try and get some of the money that is being spent for labor. The Nugget is carrying on a "Trade at Home" campaign. Let's educate people to do their buying at home whenever possible. But the business men must do their part and not expect the buyer to trade at home when he can save a lot of money by trading elsewhere. Human nature is human nature and dollars are hard to get hold of. When a person sees a chance to make a substantial saving by buying out of town it is only natural that they will take advantage of the opportunity to save money.

It is up to the chamber of commerce and business men generally to make a trading center of Nevada City. It can be done and, if local business men are to survive, it must be done. You can't expect anyone to pay twenty per cent more for a certain article just to trade at home. Nevada City merchants have simply got to meet competition. People are studying prices nowadays and they are price-wise. The man who has had his wages cut and the farmer who is selling his product at depression prices is not in a position to pay big prices for food and clothing no matter how loyal he may be to home institutions. The business man who cannot meet competition is not going to survive. This may be an unpleasant fact but it is a fact that must be definitely recognized. The Nevada City Nugget is selling job printing at prices far below the prices of four years ago. We have to do it in order to sell job printing. The business game is a cold blooded game. There is no sentiment in it.

Personally we would rather pay the local merchant a little more money than see the money go out of town and in many cases we are doing this very thing. And every loyal citizen of Nevada City should do the same thing. We don't want to see "for rent" signs in many the business houses in Nevada City and the only way to prevent that very thing from happening is to patronize local merchants. But the local merchant who tries to run his business as he did ten years ago is not going to make the grade even though he is a fine man personally and a good citizen in every way. Being a good man and a good citizen is not enough. Under the existing economic conditions we must be good business men and meet changing conditions.

But the thought we wish to leave with every reader is this: Trade at home even if you have to pay a little more. It's good policy. Let's make Nevada City a trading center.

THE BEST FRIEND OF HARD TIMES

The best friend of "hard times" is a high tax rate.

Reasonable taxes encourage the investment of capital, the development and expansion of industry, the employment of labor. They encourage home building, saving and business activity of all kinds.

Excessive taxes, on the other hand, have precisely the opposite effect. They drive money into hoarding or into tax-free government bonds, thus depriving industry of revenue it sourely needs. They make for unemployment and for widespread economic distress. They discourage the home builder. They cause property to be taken over by the county or state for unpaid taxes, where it at once becomes unproductive.

Make no mistake about it, high taxation, whether by the federal government, or states, counties or municipalities, has had much to do with creating and prolonging hard times. Every business man in the United States knows that. So does every investor. So should every worker. The best influnce in favor of good times would be a decisive cut in the cost of government and the elimination of bureaucratic waste, red tape and inefficiency. And the best place to begin is right in your own home town, county or state. The tax bill is fast becoming the barometer of economic conditions.

Tax increases the past few years have really been substantially greater than the precentage figures show. The national income has been declining at the same time, and a ten per cent tax increase means a twelve or fifteen per cent jump in the proportion of our earnings taken by govrnment.

We need decisive public action now, demanding that taxes actually be reduced in accord with the general reductions in income and purchasing power.

WOMEN ENLIST WITH WAR-TIME SPIRIT IN RED CROSS DRIVE ON DISTRESS

Little Sarah Jo Thrush tries on a dress made from Red Cross cotton in a chapter production room, where Miss Jeanette Racoosin is one of several hundred volunteers sewing garments for the needy. In the bins behind her are thousands of men's shirts and children's garments to be made up and given away. At right, Miss Mabel T. Boardman, secretary of the Red Cross, under whose leadership several hundred thousand women are making clothing for the unemployed.

HOW shall 500,000 bales of Farm Board cotton be converted into clothing for the unemployed and needy, was an urgent question confronting the American Red Cross when Congress voted the raw cotton for that purpose to the Red Cross in midsummer.

Congress also had laid 85,000,000 bushels of Farm Board wheat upon the Red Cross doorstep, beginning last March, and the great relief organization had conquered the task of putting flour and bread from this wheat into the homes of 3,500,000 of the nation's needy families. The wheat distribution continues and it is estimated that the free flour will not be exhausted until the late spring of 1933.

Cotton presented a complex problem, but the Red Cross swung a large staff of workers into the job, and by October 1 had distributed more than 30,000,000 yards of cotton cloth to more than half of the chapters or counties of the nation. Thousands of women volunteered to make the cloth into garments for school children, for men and for women. Dresses, underwear, men's shirts, boys' suits all came flying from the sewing machines.

Following up the cloth, the Red Cross prepared to give men's trousers, overalls, jumpers, boys' knickers, underwear and stockings and sox for all the family.

Without the work of the women who volunteered as seamstresses, and the thousands of men and women who helped give flour, clothing and other direct relief, in the name of the Red Cross, these useful aids to the unemployed would not have been handled so promptly, nor reached so many people, Red Cross officials say.

In the administration of the wheat and cotton, the Red Cross will expend an estimated $450,000. Funds from the Red Cross treasury will be used. Every Red Cross membership in the annual roll call from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day will help toward meeting these costs.

Chairman John Barton Payne has characterized the relief emergency facing the Red Cross this winter as the greatest it has had to meet since the World War, and has appealed for the support of every citizen.

QUAIL SEASON WILL OPEN NOVEMBER 15

On November 15th the quail season is opened throughout the state, with the exception of district 1½, comprising Del Norte, Humboldt and the western half of Siskiyou county. In this area the season opened November 1st and ends December 31.

The season for cottontail and brush rabbits opens with the quail season, and for the same length of time. District 4¾, made up of San Diego and Imperial counties, however, have no closed season on these small game animals.

The limit of rabbits for one day is 15, with a possession limit of 30 a week, except in district 4, where there is no limit. District 4 includes Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Riverside and Orange counties.

From November 15th to February 28th, it will be legal to shoot bear and trap fur bearing animals.

Steelhead fishing is open on the Russian, Napa, Novarro and Eel rivers, as well as in ditsrict 1½ of the Klamath river and in the Santa Cruz, Monterey and San Luis Obispo tidewater areas. The season extends into 1933.

The crab season opens November 15 for eight months.

With plenty of waterfowl, increase in quail coveys, rabbits more numerous in many sections of the state, steelhead fishnig the best for years, and prices increasing for fur, there seems to be plenty of opportunity for hunters, anglers and trappers to get much more use out of their 1932 hunting, fishing and trapping licenses.

FRENCH CORRAL

FRENCH CORRAL, Nov. 10.—Well, here we are back again with some news items for the Nugget, after foregoing this pleasure for the past two weeks.

Teachers' Institute, from which our "ridge" teachers reported a very interesting, instructive and pleasant session, has passed and once more our school bell peals forth its summons to what in after years will be cherished memory of life's happiest days.

Hallowe'en, too, has passed with the usual mischievous and amusing pranks. The teachers of Birchville and Sweetland schools, Mrs. Pierce and Miss Reader, planned a very pleasant party for the children. It was held in the Sweetland school room and from San Juan to French Corral the merrymakers came. Games were played and refreshments served and the evening was heartily enjoyed by young and old.

The weather is delightul and our own Nevada county in costume dress is one of the most beautiful spots on earth. A drive over our highways in view of the magnificent scenery, our beautiful woods, with their wonderful coloring, gives one a thrill of pleasure.

Many tourists avail themselves of the weekly pleasure routes mapped out by the Sacramento Bee and pass through this section. Some stop to greet an old acquantance and others to seek historical information.

For the past two weeks many droves of cattle have passed through this place. Many herds come from the state of Nevada.

Mrs. J. W. Culver returned to her home after a three weks visit with relatives in San Francisco. On her return she was accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. E. Chatty and husband and children, who spent the week-end here.

Mr. Donegan of Marysville had business here last week.

Messrs. McDonald and Corey have returned to French Corral to spend the winter. They are at present located in the building which for many years was occupied as a store and postoffice by W. E. Moulton.

Mr. and Mrs. V. Miller and little daughter have returned from San Francisco where they spent several days.

M. Bader of Sacramento was a business visitor last week.

John Lichens, who spent the summer months in the higher mountains, has returned to French Corral and will probably spend the winter here.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Hallett and J. Berriman of Los Angeles, are occupying the home of Mrs. H. Barron. Mrs. Barron has gone to Rice's Crossing to live.

Many people from French Corral were in attendance at the trial of H. Hoskins vs. K. Sullivan, which has been pending for over a year. The decision was rendered in favor of the defendant.

Mr. and Mrs. J. McCarthy and son Billie and Mrs. McCarthy's mother, Mrs. C. Perry of Reno, arrived Saturday evening to spend Sunday with the family of W. E. Moulton. They left for Marysville Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Rundy of Sacramento were Sunday visitors. Both are old residents of the San Juan ridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Dudley of Nevada City visited Mrs. Dudley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Moulton, Monday.

Clyde and Bill Browning went to Browns Valley Saturday to help W. P. Clerkin drive his cattle down.

W. P. Clerkin and sister, Miss Miller of Pike City, visited friends here recently.

With deep sorrow we learn of the death of A. Smith of Nevdaa City and extend deepest sympathy to the members of the family.

FIGURES ISSUED ON RED CROSS WORK

Meeting the calls for relief in California during the past year, the American National Red Cross has distributed flour, cotton clothing, seed for home gardens, and feed for livestock to the estimated value of $882,205, according to figures announced by A. L. Schafer, manager of the Pacific branch office in San Francisco.

The record shows 136,404 barrels of flour had been distributed as of October 13, benefiting 141,044 families.

At the same time the California chapters had applied for 1,635,261 yards of cotton cloth to be converted into clothing for men, women and children. The number of families for whom the cloth was requested totaled 124,411.

Families receiving seed for home gardens enabling them to grow vegetables, thereby augmenting food supplies, numbered 740.

Relief operations in the state also included the distribution of 600,000 pounds of cracked wheat as livestock feed in drought affected areas.

Home service, or family relief work, was accorded to 67,756 service and ex-service men and to 17,559 civilian cases.

During the year other regular Red Cross services were carried on thru Red Cross chapters which conducted 3318 First Aid classes, issuing 6,729 First Aid certificates.

Life-saving certificates to the number of 4,825 were issued while the enrollment in the swimming campaigns in California numbered 8,818.

Home Hygiene classes in the state numbered 337, certificates issued to those completing the course totaling 4,180.

California now has 261,963 Red Cross members ,the percentage of membership to population being 4.6 percent. Mr. Schafer says the state goal in the annual roll call, November 11-24, is 342,625 members.

National Red Cross expenditures for the fiscal year ended June 30 approximated $6,506,500 while in addition the 3500 chapters expended approximately $7,500,000 bringing the total amount for Red Cross relief and service in excess of $14,000,000.

To alleviate suffering among destitute natives and other needy families in Alaska, the American Red Cross rushed an express shipment of several thousand ready-made, warm, comfortable garments to catch the steamer Yukon that sailed from Seattle, October 15.

An appeal for aid from Pilot Station pictured little children without underwear, walking a mile to school last winter with the mercury down to 40 below zero. On receipt of this call for help, which did not reach Juneau until late in the summer, the Juneau chapter met the need by speeding warm underwear to the Pilot station school before the Yukon river closed to traffic early in October, that another winter would not catch the youngsters clotheless.

A subsequent survey by Juneau, Cordova, Ketchikan, Wrangell and Valdez chapters showed a number of children between 6 and 12 years of age in those communities who were especially in need of underwear, overalls and sweaters before severe cold weather should set in.

The ready-made garments, including knit underwear, hose, sweaters for men, women and children, and overalls and jumpers for men and boys, will meet the immediate need of distressed families in the several communities, say Red Cross officials.

Chapters in Alaska also are distributing Red Cross flour milled from government wheat to meet the need o fthe hungry. Records of the Pacific branch office in San Francisco show a total of 1856 barrels of flour have been shipped to the Alaska chapters; those sharing it being Cordova, Juneau, Ketchikan, Nome Seward, Fairbanks, Valdez and Wrangell.

WORN PISTON RINGS

When piston rings become worn or are not properly fitted, the condition will be evidenced in various ways, such as lack of power, poor compressioin, pumping o foil, and excessive fuel consumption, according to the Free Emergency Road Service of the California State Automobile Association. The purpose of piston rings is to seal the cylinders and prevent gasoline leaking downward or oil upward. Properly fitted rings should exert equal pressure at all points.

SAFE TIRE POSITION

For safest driving, particularly in wet weather, the front tire with the best tread should be placed on the left front wheel, suggests the Free Emergency Road Srvice of the California State Automobile Association.

The Yuba River Country

Eighty two years ago, during the month of October 1850, on Gold Hill, which is today part of Grass Valley, California's gold quartz industry, had its inception when George McKnight exposed a rich gold bearing quartz lodge with the toe of his boot. The following seven years saw four millions in gold produced from this spot—around which revolved the annual two day celebration falling this year on October 29th and 30th.

Shortly after, lodges were discovered on Massachusetes Hill and other places in the vicinity of Grass Valley. Four young men from Boston, on their first day of mining near Nevada City. located the lodge of the rich Gold Tunnel Property. During 1851 many shallow diggings pock-marked the hills about both Grass Valley and Nevada City. That winter two Germans built, at Boston Ravine, the first gold mill to be erected in the state. The mill no longer stands, but the spot is known. It lies between Mill Street and Wolf Creek, on a plot of ground that a number of years ago was used as a basket ball court. One of the baskets still remains. Eight or ten mills were quickly erected in Grass Valley and the same number in Nevada City, but nearly all were failures. By 1853, quartz mining had reached its low ebb. Mills had been erected at enormous expense; in many cases the projectors, as promoters were called in those days, paid exorbitant rates of interest for money used in their erection; many were built on defective assays by professed assayers and in many cases the projectors and operators deceived themselves. Hope was often father to the thought. It is not surpriisng so many ventures were unsuccessful for men had no knowledge of amalgamation and there were no miners in the country who knew how to open or work a ledge. The resultant failures were the cause of many sucides of which the Michael Brenan tragedy, mentioned in one of our earlier bulletins, is the most classic. However, even at the period of the lowest depression those pioneer quartz miners had faith in the speedy revival of the business and predicted that these veins would yet be worked successfully long after the placer mines were exhausted. Bean's Directory of 1867 states, "The present generation will not live to verify the truth or falsity of these predictions for late developments indicate an extent of placer ground that will require centuries to exhaust, and of which the miners of that early day had no knowledge." On the other hand the miners of 1867 could not forsee the hydraulic mines which a few years later were to wash whole mountains down into the Sacramento Valley, cutting through them with a speed that in 1867 was not to be imagined and in 1932, can no longer be visualized. But the gold quartz industry still flourishes. These pioners would have been amazed could they have guessed that in three quarters of a century following their labors, more than one quarter of a billion dollars worth o fgold would be produced in the western end of Nevada County. This same region lead the State gold production in 1931, with an annual recovery of nearly three and one half million. Each day ten thousand dollars worth of gold comes to the top in around Grace Valley. The surface at Grass Valley is covered with modern hotels, office buildings, stores, garages, service stations, churches, auditoriums, schools, beautiful home, and neat cottages. Intermingled with these are buildings and home that date back to the early 50's still in use now as they were then.—windows and doors guarded with the iron shutters of gold rush days. While underneath, like a giant ant hill, more than 150 miles of tunnels honey-comb the bowls of the earth. Hundreds of citizens spend eight hours o every day where the summer heat and the winter cold never make the slightest impression. For eighty three years gold mines have been the back bone of Grass Valley.

Some mining camps have become ghost towns, for as gold become hard to find, miners and their families left, and the merchants followed. Just a few of the old timers might remain, steadfast in their faith that gold in vast quantities would still eb found. Many times in many places their faith has been rewarded. A town though dormant for decades suddenly blossoms into life as an old mine is revived, or a new one found. Miners might miss an underground fortune in gold by inches—halt a year or half a century later others might find it. Therein lies the glamour and the fascination of the gold mining profession.

the Nevada City team, continued his hard hitting line play in the second half. With Chapman getting away some much faster kicks, San Juan was back on her heels most of the time. Some of his kicks were clear over the safety man's head. Chapman was evidently determined to make up for that blocked kick, and he did.

San Juan's running plays were effectively stopped and her attempts at passing made but few gains.

Late in the third quarter, Oates, standing on his own 35-yard line, shot a high pass forward and across the field to Tamblyn. Racing at top speed, the latter snatched the ball away from a San Juan back and continued towards the goal line. Seeing that he was ahead of his interference and that two San Juan men were cutting him down, Tamblyn slowed down and allowed his teammates to overtake him. With them clipping the two San Juan players out of the play, Tamblyn put on more speed and ran away from his pursuer for a touchdown. That pass, with the aid of timely blocking, resulted in a beautiful play for a touchdown. The conversion play was a fake kick that resulted in a weak pass over the goal line, being knocked down by San Juan.

The remainder of the game was again played in San Juan territory, although at one time San Juan made a valiant try and made three frist downs in a row. They were stopped on the local's 40 yard line and had to punt.

The game ended as San Juan kicked out of danger after Nevada City had lost the ball on downs on the 6 yard line with 4 to go. Another five minutes or less and Nevada City would have had a third touchdown.

The boys in the line played a much better game than they did a week ago against Grass Valley. Large holes were opened up for the backs on many occasions and the tackling was good for the most part.

Sharp, a converted guard, played a good game in the backfield. Coach Barron is now being rewarded for his concentrated teaching of the fundamentals of football. Superior blocking and tackling were the leading factors in the victory.

Hanford—Driskell's electric store, opened for business in Whilton building.

William Gracey of the local Forest Service office, left yesterday for San Francisco, where he will spend from 4 to 6 weeks in the regional office of the Forest Service in the office of accounts. Mrs. Gracey and family will remain in Nevada City during his absence.

The Forest Service now has two carpenters working on a guard station near the Junction House and Lookout Point on the Tahoe-Ukiah highway. The station house will be composed of thre rooms and its completion is expected in about two weeks by Mr. R. L. P. Bigelow, Chief of the Tahoe Forest.

HEALTH BY CHIROPRACTIC

HEALTH TALK
DR. H. L. JONES

No greater service can be rendered than that of restoring health to the sick and suffering. The compentently trained Chiropractor, in any community, posses unusual capacity to deliver a tremendous health service, because the percentage of results attained by the correct application of Chiropractic principles is far greater than that secured by other methods. The superiority of Chiropractic as a health science has been established in the minds of thousands upon thousands of individuals, because of the proved worth and merit of Chiropractic in comparison with results secured otherwise.

Chiropractic is in complete harmony with the inherent forces of the body. The human organism contains a marvelous vital force which controls and actuates the various organs of the body. The human brain is the generator of this vital life force, or nerve impulses. These nerve impulses are the life of the body. They are transmitted from the brain, through the spinal cord, thence by way of nerve trunks that find their exit through the openings between the vertebrae. When the spinal column is in normal alignment, the brain generates and transmits this vital life force. This interference causes a condition of disease which manifests itself in the organs of the body that are affected by such interference.

The Chiropractor locates (by use of the X-Ray) these points of interference in the patient's spine and then proceeds to adjust the vertebrae, responsible for the interference. Thus, by releasing the nerve pressure that is causing the interference, he enables the vital life force within the patient to manifest itself normally nad thus restore health. I can by the use of the X-Ray show you the cause of your illness. Why suffer those pains and that discomfort? Because you have failed to get help from other methods of treatment is no reason why you should not investigate the services of this office. Remember one thing, I will not take cases I cannot successfully handle—it would be poor advertiseing. If help is possible for you I am ready to help you, the same as I am helping many patients everyday. Phone 144 for appointment.
